MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE BRIEF OF EVERYTOWN FOR GUN SAFETY AS AMICUS CURIAE; EXHIBIT A

Summary Judgment Motion Hearing:
June 28, 2021, at 10:00 a.m.
Chief Judge J. Michael Seabright

Trial Date: February 23, 2022

MOTION FOR LEAVE TO FILE BRIEF OF EVERYTOWN FOR GUN SAFETY AS AMICUS CURIAE

Everytown for Gun Safety (formally, Everytown for Gun Safety Action Fund; hereafter "Everytown") respectfully moves for leave to file an amicus curiae brief in the above-captioned matter in support of the Attorney General's Counter-

Motion for Summary Judgment and Opposition to Plaintiffs’ Motion for Summary Judgment. The Court has set these motions for hearing on June 28, 2021. If granted leave, Everytown will file the brief attached as Exhibit A. The Attorney General consents to Everytown’s motion for leave, and plaintiffs have advised that they oppose this motion.

Everytown is the nation’s largest gun-violence-prevention organization, with nearly six million supporters across the country, including thousands in Hawai‘i. Everytown was founded in 2014 as the combined efforts of Mayors Against Illegal Guns, a national, bipartisan coalition of mayors combating illegal guns and gun trafficking, and Moms Demand Action for Gun Sense in America, an organization formed after the murder of twenty children and six adults in an elementary school in Newtown, Conn. Everytown also includes the Everytown Survivor Network, a nationwide community of survivors working together to end gun violence.

A “district court has broad discretion to appoint amici curiae.” Hoptowit v. Ray, 682 F.2d 1237, 1260 (9th Cir. 1982), abrogated on other grounds by Sandin v. Conner, 515 U.S. 472 (1995); see also Duronslet v. Cty. of Los Angeles, No. 2:16-cv-08933, 2017 WL 5643144, at *1 (C.D. Cal. Jan. 23, 2017). Courts “frequently welcome amicus briefs from nonparties concerning legal issues that have potential ramifications beyond the parties directly involved or if the amicus has unique information or perspective that can help the court beyond the help that the lawyers for the parties are able to provide.” Safari Club Int’l v. Harris, No. 2:14-cv-01856, 2015 WL 1255491, at *1 (E.D. Cal. Jan. 14, 2015) (citation omitted). “Even when a party is very well represented, an amicus may provide important assistance to the court.” Duronslet, 2017 WL 5643144 at *1 (quoting Neonatology Assocs., P.A. v. C.I.R., 293 F.3d 128, 132 (3d Cir. 2002)). “The touchstone is whether the amicus is ‘helpful,’ and there is no requirement ‘that amici must be totally disinterested.’” Earth Island Inst. v. Nash, No. 1:19-cv-01420-DAD-SAB, 2019 WL 6790682, at *1 (E.D. Cal. Dec. 12, 2019); see Funbus Sys., Inc. v. State of Cal. Pub. Utilities Comm’n, 801 F.2d 1120, 1125 (9th Cir. 1986) (“[T]here is no rule that amici must be totally disinterested,” and it is “a perfectly permissible role for an amicus” to “take a legal position and present legal arguments in support of it.”).

In short, “[a]n amicus brief should normally be allowed when . . . the amicus has unique information or perspective that can help the court beyond the help that the lawyers for the parties are able to provide.” Cnty. Ass’n for Restoration of the Env’t. (CARE) v. DeRuyter Bros. Dairy, 54 F. Supp. 2d 974, 975 (E.D. Wash. 1999) (citing Northern Sec. Co. v. United States, 191 U.S. 555, 556 (1903)). Everytown has this unique information or perspective.

Over the past several years, Everytown has devoted substantial resources to researching and developing expertise in historical firearms legislation, which can provide important context in Second Amendment cases, including in this matter. Everytown has drawn on that expertise to file briefs in numerous Second Amendment cases, including a prior brief in this case, offering historical and doctrinal analysis, as well as social science and public policy research, that might otherwise be overlooked. See Dkt. 64, 67; see also, e.g., Teter v. Connors, No. 1:19-cv-00183 (D. Haw.), Dkt. 47; Roberts v. Suzuki, No. 1:18-cv-00125 (D. Haw.), Dkt. 62-1; Young v. Hawaii, No. 12-17808 (9th Cir.); Silvester v. Harris, No. 14-16840 (9th Cir.). In Roberts, at Judge Gillmor’s invitation, Everytown also presented oral argument as amicus curiae on the parties’ summary judgment motions. See No. 1:18-cv-00125, Dkt. 71.

Several courts, including in this District, have expressly relied on Everytown’s amicus briefs in deciding Second Amendment and other gun cases. See Teter v. Connors, 460 F. Supp. 3d 989, 1002-03 (D. Haw. 2020), appeal docketed, No. 20-15948 (9th Cir. May 19, 2020)); Ass’n of N.J. Rifle & Pistol Clubs, Inc. v. Att’y Gen. N.J., 910 F.3d 106, 112 n.8 (3d Cir. 2018); Rupp v. Becerra, 401 F. Supp. 3d 978, 991-92 & n.11 (C.D. Cal. 2019), appeal docketed, No. 19-56004 (9th Cir. Aug. 28, 2019); see also Rehaif v. United States, 139 S. Ct. 2191, 2210-11 nn.4 & 7 (2019) (Alito, J., dissenting).

Everytown’s proposed amicus brief (attached as Exhibit A) addresses two points. First, it addresses two preliminary errors in plaintiffs’ account of the historical inquiry courts undertake in Second Amendment cases in the wake of District of Columbia v. Heller, 554 U.S. 570 (2008). Second, it demonstrates that the inspection requirement in the law is part of a regulatory tradition stretching all the way back to the founding era. Militia laws in the earliest days of the United States—which Everytown discusses in its brief and sets forth in an accompanying appendix—required members to equip themselves with specific firearms and ammunition and to present themselves and their weapons for inspection on a regular basis. In light of these laws, ordinary citizens in the founding era would have considered in-person inspection requirements to be well within the government’s powers—and thus, under Heller, such requirements fall outside the scope of the Second Amendment. As Everytown discusses in its brief, plaintiffs’ challenge to Hawai‘i’s law on this basis should therefore fail.

The Attorney General has consented to the filing of this proposed amicus brief. Plaintiffs have said that they will oppose the filing of this brief, without indicating their grounds for doing so. Allowing Everytown leave to file as amicus will not cause any prejudice or delay, because this motion is filed within seven days of the State’s filing on its summary judgment motion (in accord with the comparable rule for amicus filings in the federal courts of appeals, see Fed. R. App. P. 29(a)(6)) and well in advance of the June 28, 2021 hearing on the Parties’ respective motions for summary judgment. This Court previously granted Everytown leave to file an amicus brief, see Dkt. 67, over plaintiffs' opposition, see Dkt. 65.

CONCLUSION

For the foregoing reasons, Everytown respectfully requests that this Court grant it leave to file the amicus curiae brief attached hereto as Exhibit A.

DATED: Honolulu, Hawai'i, June 4, 2021.

BRIEF OF EVERYTOWN FOR GUN SAFETY AS AMICUS CURIAE

I. INTEREST OF AMICUS CURIAE

Amicus curiae Everytown for Gun Safety (formally, Everytown for Gun Safety Action Fund; hereafter, “Everytown”) is the nation’s largest gun-violence-prevention organization, with nearly six million supporters across the country, including thousands in Hawai‘i. Everytown was founded in 2014 as the combined efforts of Mayors Against Illegal Guns, a national, bipartisan coalition of mayors combating illegal guns and gun trafficking, and Moms Demand Action for Gun Sense in America, an organization formed after the murder of twenty children and six adults in an elementary school in Newtown, Conn. Everytown also includes the Everytown Survivor Network, a nationwide community of survivors working together to end gun violence.

Everytown’s mission includes defending gun safety laws through the filing of amicus briefs providing historical context, social science and public policy research, and doctrinal analysis that might otherwise be overlooked. Everytown has filed such briefs in numerous Second Amendment cases, including a prior brief in this case. See Dkt. 64, 67; see also, e.g., Teter v. Connors, No. 1:19-cv-00183 (D. Haw.), Dkt. 47; Roberts v. Suzuki, No. 1:18-cv-00125 (D. Haw.), Dkt. 62-1; Young v. Hawaii, No. 12-17808 (9th Cir.); Silvester v. Harris, No. 14-16840 (9th Cir.). Several courts, including in this District, have expressly relied on Everytown's amicus briefs in deciding Second Amendment and other gun cases. See Teter v. Connors, 460 F. Supp. 3d 989, 1002-03 (D. Haw. 2020), appeal docketed, No. 20-15948 (9th Cir. May 19, 2020); Ass'n of N.J. Rifle & Pistol Clubs, Inc. v. Att'y Gen. N.J., 910 F.3d 106, 112 n.8 (3d Cir. 2018); Rupp v. Becerra, 401 F. Supp. 3d 978, 991-92 & n.11 (C.D. Cal. 2019), appeal docketed, No. 19-56004 (9th Cir. Aug. 28, 2019); see also Rehaif v. United States, 139 S. Ct. 2191, 2210-11 nn.4 & 7 (2019) (Alito, J., dissenting).

II. INTRODUCTION

Hawai'i protects its citizens from gun violence through permit-to-acquire and registration laws for handguns. Plaintiffs allege that these laws violate the Second Amendment. As the State explains in its brief, however, the permitting scheme and registration laws do not regulate constitutionally-protected conduct and, in any event, survive the applicable standard of scrutiny. See Defendant's Counter-Motion for Summary Judgment and Opposition to Plaintiffs' Motion for Summary Judgment, Dkt. 91-1, at 11-25 ("State Br.").

Everytown submits this amicus brief in support of the State to address two points. First, this brief addresses two preliminary errors in plaintiffs' account of the historical inquiry courts undertake in Second Amendment cases in the wake of District of Columbia v. Heller, 554 U.S. 570 (2008). Second, it demonstrates that there is a long history of regulation supporting Hawai'i's in-person inspection requirement stretching all the way back to the founding era. Militia laws in the earliest days of the United States required members to equip themselves with specific firearms and ammunition and to present their weapons for inspection on a regular basis. In light of these laws, ordinary citizens in the founding era would have considered in-person inspection requirements to be well within the government's powers—and thus, under Heller, such requirements fall outside the scope of the Second Amendment. Plaintiffs' challenge to H.R.S. § 134-3 on this basis should therefore fail.

III. UNDER HELLER AND NINTH CIRCUIT PRECEDENT, GUN REGULATIONS WITH A LONGSTANDING HISTORICAL PEDIGREE ARE CONSTITUTIONAL

In Heller, the Supreme Court held that the Second Amendment protects an individual right to bear arms. It emphasized, however, that the right “is not unlimited,” and that “nothing in [its] opinion should be taken to cast doubt on longstanding prohibitions on the possession of firearms.” Id. at 626. Those longstanding prohibitions include “laws imposing conditions and qualifications on the commercial sale of arms,” which are “presumptively lawful regulatory measures.” Id. at 626-27 n.26.

In the wake of Heller, courts in the Ninth Circuit—and, indeed, in every circuit to have addressed the issue—apply a two-step analysis to Second Amendment claims.¹ The first step is to ask “whether the challenged law burdens conduct protected by the Second Amendment.” Chovan, 735 F.3d at 1136. Courts examine “whether there is persuasive historical evidence showing that the regulation does not impinge on the Second Amendment right as it was historically understood.” Silvester v. Harris, 843 F.3d 816, 821 (9th Cir. 2016); see also Young v. Hawaii, 992 F.3d 765, 784-85 (9th Cir. 2021) (en banc) (critiquing other circuits for not undertaking a “systematic review of the historical right”). Where such evidence exists, the law should be upheld ““without further analysis””—in other words, without proceeding to the second step of the inquiry—because it falls outside the Second Amendment’s scope. Young, 992 F.3d at 783 (citation omitted); see also Peruta v. County of San Diego, 824 F.3d 919, 942 (9th Cir. 2016) (en banc) (upholding concealed-carry restrictions based on historical analysis alone).

In arguing that their challenge survives step one of the two-step framework, plaintiffs make two preliminary arguments.² First, they argue that the only question is whether the challenged law itself is longstanding. See Memorandum in Support of Plaintiffs’ Motion for Summary Judgment, Dkt. 85-1, at 4-5 (“Pl. Br.”). Second, they claim that 20th century laws cannot be longstanding. See id. at 5-7. Both of these arguments are mistaken.

¹ See, e.g., United States v. Chovan, 735 F.3d 1127, 1136-37 (9th Cir. 2013); Kolbe v. Hogan, 849 F.3d 114, 132-33 (4th Cir. 2017) (en banc) (collecting decisions of Second, Third, Fifth, Sixth, Seventh, Tenth, Eleventh, and D.C. Circuits); Gould v. Morgan, 907 F.3d 659, 669 (1st Cir. 2018).

² In addition, in a prior filing, see Plaintiffs’ Response to Defendant’s Motion for Summary Judgment, Dkt. 70-1 (“Pl. Resp.”), plaintiffs purported to address the founding-era history of in-person inspection requirements that Everytown previously presented to this Court. Part IV.A sets out that history again and Part IV.B addresses plaintiffs’ effort to rebut it.

A. Laws Are Constitutional at Step One if They Are Themselves Longstanding or if They Are Part of a Longstanding Regulatory Tradition

Plaintiffs argue that the in-person inspection requirement of H.R.S. § 134-3 is “less than a year old” and that the ten-day expiration period is of “twentieth-century vintage,” and, on those bases, that neither is “longstanding.” See Dkt 85-1 at 4-7. This misunderstands the inquiry. For purposes of Heller’s exceptions, it is sufficient if a law itself is longstanding, but it is not necessary; the law also falls outside the scope of the Second Amendment if it is part of a longstanding regulatory tradition. The D.C. Circuit addressed exactly this issue in United States v. Class, 930 F.3d 460 (D.C. Cir. 2019), in which a criminal defendant challenged a 1980 prohibition on firearms in a parking lot near the Capitol. The court rejected the defendant’s argument that the precise prohibition challenged had to be “longstanding” to fall into Heller’s exceptions. Instead, “[t]he relevant inquiry is whether a particular type of regulation has been a ‘longstanding’ exception to the right to bear arms.” Id. at 465.

A modern law also does not have to match precisely a historical regulatory tradition for the modern law to fall outside the Second Amendment's scope. See, e.g., Fyock v. City of Sunnyvale, 779 F.3d 991, 997 (9th Cir. 2015) (“Heller demonstrates that a regulation can be deemed ‘longstanding’ even if it cannot boast a precise founding-era analogue.” (quoting National Rifle Ass’n v. Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, Firearms, and Explosives, 700 F.3d 185, 196 (5th Cir. 2012))); United States v. Skoien, 614 F.3d 638, 641 (7th Cir. 2010) (en banc) (“exclusions” from the scope of the right “need not mirror limits that were on the books in 1791”). The U.S. Solicitor General recently explained that the Supreme Court “has never held ... that modern firearms regulations can be constitutional only if they mirror colonial regulations. ... It is enough if the modern law is ‘fairly supported’ by tradition.” Br. in Opp. to Pet. for a Writ of Cert. 9-10, McGinnis v. United States, No. 20-6046 (Jan. 15, 2021) (citations omitted), cert. denied (Feb. 22, 2021). More generally, “lower courts have used analogy to extend Heller’s exclusions beyond those specifically identified in the case.” Joseph Blocher & Darrell A.H. Miller, The Positive Second Amendment 136 (2018); see, e.g., Kachalsky v. County of Westchester, 701 F.3d 81, 91 (2d Cir. 2012) (upholding law regulating public carry of firearms, which has “a number of close and longstanding cousins”); cf. Long v. SEPTA, 903 F.3d 312, 321, 324 (3d Cir. 2018) (in Article III standing context, where Supreme Court test requires that an intangible harm have “‘a close relationship’ to one that historically has provided a basis for a lawsuit,” emphasizing that “[a] perfect common-law analog is not required” (citation omitted)).³

B. Early 20th Century Laws Are “Longstanding”

Plaintiffs are also mistaken in claiming that, simply because the ten-day expiration period originated in the early 20th century, it cannot be “longstanding.” See Pl. Br. 85-1 at 4-7. To the contrary, it was not until the late 19th and early 20th centuries that “the administrative state had developed sufficiently to make regulations such as licensing, registration, and background checks realistic to implement.”⁴ In Heller, the Supreme Court made clear that “longstanding prohibitions on the possession of firearms by felons and the mentally ill” were constitutional, see 554 U.S. at 626-27, even though “the current version of these bans are of mid-20th century vintage,” National Rifle Ass’n, 700 F.3d at 196; see also, e.g., Skoien, 614 F.3d at 640-41 (noting that the “presumptively constitutional” extension of prohibitions to non-violent felons did not occur until the 1960s, and “legal limits on the possession of firearms by the mentally ill also are of 20th Century vintage”); Heller II, 670 F.3d at 1253 (“The Court in Heller considered ‘prohibitions on the possession of firearms by felons’ to be ‘longstanding’ although states did not start to enact them until the early 20th century.”). Following Heller, the Ninth Circuit and other courts of appeals have concluded or noted that 20th century laws may themselves be longstanding and presumptively constitutional, or may establish a longstanding history of regulation such that the regulated activity falls outside the scope of the Second Amendment. See, e.g., Fyock, 779 F.3d at 996 (noting that “early twentieth century regulations might ... demonstrate a history of longstanding regulation if their historical prevalence and significance is properly developed in the record”); Silvester, 843 F.3d at 831 (Thomas, C.J., concurring) (“[W]aiting periods—which first appeared on the books in California in 1923—constitute a sufficiently longstanding condition or qualification on the commercial sale of arms to be considered presumptively lawful.”); Pena v. Lindley, 898 F.3d 969, 1003 (9th Cir. 2018) (Bybee, J., concurring in part and dissenting in part) (observing that early 20th century laws can be longstanding); Heller II, 670 F.3d at 1253-55 (concluding that “basic registration of handguns is deeply enough rooted in our history to support the presumption that a registration requirement is constitutional” under Heller, in light of registration laws from the 1910s and 1920s); Drake v. Filko, 724 F.3d 426, 433-34 (3d Cir. 2013) (concluding that New Jersey’s 1924 law permitting public concealed carry only for those who can show “justifiable need” is “a longstanding regulation that enjoys presumptive constitutionality,” including in light of New York’s similar 1913 law).⁵

³ Even the small number of dissenting jurists who would prefer to interpret the Second Amendment to bar any firearm regulation not grounded in “text, history, and tradition”—a view contrary to the two-part Second Amendment framework that is the law of the Ninth Circuit and every other circuit that has weighed in—acknowledge that “the proper interpretive approach” to the historical inquiry involves “reason[ing] by analogy from history and tradition.” See, e.g., Heller v. District of Columbia, 670 F.3d 1244, 1275 (2011) (“Heller II”) (Kavanaugh, J., dissenting) (emphasis added).

⁴ Mark Frassetto, Judging History: How Judicial Discretion in Applying Originalist Methodology Affects the Outcome of Post-Heller Second Amendment Cases, 29 Wm. & Mary Bill Rts. J. 413, 427 (2020).

* * *

In light of these principles, and as the State explains, the ten-day expiration period in Hawai‘i’s permitting requirement is constitutional at the first step of the two-step framework. See State Br. 12-13 (Hawaii’s law is itself longstanding and is also part of a longstanding regulatory tradition in light of analogous early 20th century laws from other states). With respect to Hawai‘i’s in-person inspection requirement, these principles are not even necessary. As the following section explains, there is abundant, persuasive founding-era evidence showing that in-person inspection does not impinge on the Second Amendment right as it was historically understood. In light of this evidence, this Court should reject plaintiffs' challenge to the inspection requirement at the first step of the Second Amendment analysis.⁶

⁵ Plaintiffs attempt to diminish Fyock by arguing that its dictum endorsing 20th century pedigree is in tension with Chovan and Young. See Pl. Br. 5-7. In Chovan, however, the Court simply noted that it was “not clear[]” that a 1938 law was longstanding before announcing that the “more important[]” point was that prohibitions on domestic violence misdemeanants were not enacted until 1996. Chovan, 735 F.3d at 1137. In Young, the court did not “clarif[y]” that “in th[e] Ninth] Circuit, twentieth century laws are not reviewed ‘in detail,’” as the plaintiffs assert (Pl. Br. 6); instead, it expressed a lack of “inclin[ation]” to review twentieth-century developments in that case, after its exhaustive survey of earlier historical materials had already revealed a robust tradition of regulating the carrying of arms in public. See Young, 992 F.3d at 787-811.

IV. THE LONGSTANDING HISTORICAL PEDIGREE OF IN-PERSON INSPECTION REQUIREMENTS ESTABLISHES THE CONSTITUTIONALITY OF H.R.S. § 134-3

A. Laws Imposing Stringent In-Person Gun Inspection Requirements Were Widespread in 1791

Around the time of the Second Amendment's ratification in 1791, and in the decades preceding, laws requiring inspection of personal weapons existed at the federal level and throughout the original states. These laws were part of militia requirements, which mandated that individuals subject to militia duty—typically, white men in a specified age range⁷—must acquire their own arms and ammunition. The laws described the weapons required and provided for regular inspection by militia officers.

⁶ If the Court were to proceed to the second step, it should uphold the law for the reasons set out in the State's brief. See State Br. 13-18, 22-25. As the State explains, the appropriate standard at step two would be intermediate scrutiny and Hawai'i's law survives such scrutiny. See id. The robust history supporting the law, set forth below and in the State's brief, further supports concluding that intermediate scrutiny is the applicable standard. See, e.g., Kachalsky, 701 F.3d at 96 ("Because our tradition so clearly indicates a substantial role for state regulation of the carrying of firearms in public, we conclude that intermediate scrutiny is appropriate in this case.").

Weapons requirements were specific. Connecticut's 1784 law, for example, required "a well fixed Musket, the Barrel not less than three Feet and [a] Half long, and a Bayonet fitted thereto, with a Sheath and Belt or Strap for the same, with a Ram-rod, Worm, Priming-wire and Brush, [and] one Cartouch-box carrying sixteen rounds of Cartridges, made with good Musket Powder and Ball, fitting his Gun."⁸ A 1776 Massachusetts law required "a good fire-arm, with a steel or iron ramrod and a spring to retain the same, a worm, priming-wire and brush, and a bayonet fitted to his gun, ... and a cutting-sword, or a tomahawk or hatchet, a pouch containing a cartridge-box that will hold fifteen rounds of cartridges, at least, a hundred buck-shot, a jack-knife, ... one pound of powder, [and] forty leaden balls."⁹ South Carolina law in 1778 required "one good musket and

Militia laws also provided for in-person inspection to ensure that militiamen were prepared and properly armed if called up to fight. In particular, they required members to attend regular musters (militia assemblies) with their arms and ammunition, which officers would inspect. The 1792 federal Militia Acts, for example, required “the brigade-inspector to attend the regimental and battalion meeting of the militia composing their several brigades, during the time of their being under arms, to inspect their arms, ammunition and accoutrements.”¹¹

Massachusetts required that “every captain ... shall call the train-band of his company together four days in a year, ... for the purpose of examining their arms and equipments, and instructing them in military exercises.”¹² In Virginia, “every militiaman” had to “furnish himself with a good rifle, if to be had,” or certain identified alternative weapons, “and appear with the same at the place appointed

In a number of states and under federal law, furthermore, not only were militia members' firearms inspected, they were also recorded in a register. “Constitutional rights are enshrined with the scope they were understood to have when the people adopted them[.]” Heller, 554 U.S. at 634-35. The ubiquity of these militia inspection laws means that ordinary citizens in the founding era would have understood a requirement to present arms for inspection to be well within the government’s power—and thus outside the scope of the Second Amendment. See United States v. Marzzarella, 614 F.3d 85, 91 (3d Cir. 2010) (“If the Second Amendment codified a pre-existing right to bear arms [as Heller announced], it codified the pre-ratification understanding of that right Therefore, if the right to bear arms as commonly understood at the time of ratification did not bar [a certain set of restrictions or limitations], it follows that by constitutionalizing this understanding, the Second Amendment carved out these limitations from the right.”).²⁷

Such men had to report for frequent musters—where their guns would be inspected and, yes, registered on public rolls.”).

²⁷ To be sure, not every gun owner would have been required to join the militia, and thus required personally to maintain and present the specified arms for

B. In-Person Inspection and Registration Under Hawai‘i Law Sits Firmly Within This Longstanding Historical Tradition.

The historical tradition of requiring in-person inspection of firearms provides a robust historical basis for Hawai‘i’s law. Just as militia officers would inspect (and frequently record) members’ personal weapons to ensure that they comported with militia weaponry requirements, Hawai‘i’s law requires police officers to inspect and register guns in-person to verify that they comport with the information provided in the registration form. In fact, by mandating regular and repeated in-person firearm inspections, these historical laws imposed a much greater burden on militia-eligible gun owners than would such a comparatively modest one-time check.

Plaintiffs have raised two challenges to this evidence. First, they argue that this Court should ignore founding-era militia laws because “Heller already rejected a militia-centric view of the Second Amendment.” Pl. Resp., Dkt. 70-1, at 1. That inspection, given that states typically confined the militia to white men in a specified age range. But most guns in the founding era were owned by white adult men. See generally Winkler, supra note 26 (explaining that founding-era authorities disarmed many groups and, “[f]or those men who were allowed to own guns,” mandated purchase, inspection, and registration as part of militia duty); J. Lindgren & J. Heather, Counting Guns in Early America, 43 Wm. & Mary L. Rev. 1777, 1871 (2002) (finding 4.4 times greater likelihood of male than female gun ownership in Virginia and Maryland probate estates, 1740-1810). And the Supreme Court has never suggested—nor would it make any sense to require—that a law had to be universally applicable in the founding era before a court can conclude that ordinary citizens in that era would have considered it to be within the government’s powers.

does not follow. Heller held that the Second Amendment enshrined an individual right, as opposed to a right connected to militia service. See, e.g., 554 U.S. at 616. But that does not mean that government powers under early militia laws have no bearing on the proper understanding of the scope of the Second Amendment. Indeed, Heller itself relied on militia laws in defending its view of the Second Amendment. See, e.g., 554 U.S. at 590 (Pennsylvania Militia Act of 1757).

Second, plaintiffs argue that founding-era militia laws are inapposite “because they deal with laws for the inspection of firearms required for military duty,” firearms that “were already owned,” as opposed to inspections “for private use” of firearms “prior to being owned.” Pl. Resp., Dkt. 70-1, at 1. But plaintiffs make no effort to explain why these distinctions should make any difference, and they do not. To be sure, Hawai‘i’s challenged gun inspection law exists in a different context than the historical laws discussed above—as part of a background check and registration process, rather than as part of ensuring a functional state militia. But, as explained above (at 5-7), a law need not precisely match a set of founding-era regulations to be part of a longstanding historical tradition. Moreover, a central function of Hawai‘i’s law and the historical laws is the same: to ensure that the gun an individual possesses matches the applicable specifications—of the registration in Hawai‘i’s case and of the militia laws in the historical cases. See Response to Interrogatory No. 6, Dkt. 55-2 at 6-7 (“In-person handgun registrations can prevent fraud and reduce or eliminate discrepancies.”); State Br. 23-24 (“[The] government[’s] objective in requiring people to bring the firearm to the registration is that it ensures that the registration information is accurate, it ensures that the firearm complies with Hawaii law, and it confirms the identity of the firearm so as to facilitate tracing by law enforcement.”); see generally Heller v. District of Columbia, 801 F.3d 264, 285 (D.C. Cir. 2015) (Henderson, J., concurring in part and dissenting in part) (in-person inspection and registration process is needed to “verify that the application information is correct” (internal quotation marks and citations omitted)). In other words, in each case, the requirements exist to ensure that people own the specific firearm they are supposed to. Such a requirement was understood to be permissible in 1791, and thus it does not implicate a Second Amendment right today.

V. CONCLUSION

This Court should enter summary judgment in favor of the State and against the plaintiffs.

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT FOR FORMING AND REGULATING THE MILITIA WITHIN THE COLONY OF THE MASSACHUSETTS BAY, IN NEW ENGLAND, AND FOR REPEALING ALL THE LAWS HERETOFORE MADE FOR THAT PURPOSE.

WHEREAS it is not only the interest but the duty of all nations to defend their lives, liberties and properties, in that land which the Supreme Ruler of the universe has bestowed on them, against the unlawful attacks and depredations of all enemies whatever, especially those who are moved by a spirit of avarice, or despotism; and whereas the honorable American Congress have recommended to the United Colonies to put the militia into a proper state for the defence of America; and whereas the laws now in force respecting the regulation of the militia have been found insufficient for the purposes aforesaid, —

Preamble.

• It is therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

[SECT. 1.] That the several laws, and the several paragraphs and clauses of all and every the laws, of this colony, enforce[ing] or any ways relating to the regulation of the militia, be and hereby are repeal[ed], and declared null and void.

Repealing clause.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 2.] That that part of the militia of this colony, commonly called the training-band, shall be constituted of all the able-bodied male persons therein, from sixteen years old to fifty, excepting members of the American Congress, members of the council and of the house of representatives, for the time being, the secretary of the colony, all civil officers that have been or shall be appointed by the general court or either branch of it, officers and students of Harvard College, ministers of the gospel, elders and deacons of churches, church-wardens, grammar-school masters, masters of arts, the denomination of Christians called Quakers, selectmen, for the time being, those who have by commission under any government or congress, or by election in pursuance of the vote of any congress, of the continent, or of this or any other colony, held the post of a subaltern, or higher officer, persons while actually employed as masters of vessels of more than thirty tons burthen, other than fishing vessels and vessels coasting in this colony, and to and from this colony to the other New-England governments, constables, and deputy sher[if]s, negroes, Indians and m[en] of color, and shall be under the command of such officers as shall be chosen, impower[ed], and commissioned over them, as is by this act provided; and the selectmen, or the Persons excepted.

• [SECT.] 1.

NOTE. — In numbering the sections of this chapter the division of the engrossed act has not been strictly followed, as the numbers there given are placed opposite the first line of the enacting clauses of the respective sections, and, moreover, are not, in all cases, denotative of clearly distinct sections. It has, therefore, been deemed best to give in the margin the numbers of the sections in the engrossment. The word [SECT.] not appearing in the engrossment, nor in the contemporary impression, is, in each instance, enclosed in brackets. Another impression of this act, under the resolve of April 21, 1776, differs from it in several unimportant particulars, which have not been thought of sufficient consequence to be noticed here, inasmuch as all differences between the engrossment and the printed act most nearly in conformity thereto, have been carefully noted.

* An ACT for the regulating, training, and arraying of the Militia, and for providing more effectually for the Defence and Security of the State.

Passed Jan. 8, 1781.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the several Laws heretofore made for the Government of the Militia, and for the Purpose of directing the internal Force of the State to the Preservation and Safety of the same, have been found inadequate to these important Purposes, and have become, from their Number and Diversity, difficult to be understood and executed; Therefore,

Militia, how to be divided.

SECT. 1. BE IT ENACTED by the Council and General Assembly of this State, and it is hereby Enacted by the Authority of the same, That, from and after the Publication of this Act, the Militia of this State shall be divided into three Brigades, as follows: The Militia of the Counties of Bergen, Essex, Morris, Sussex, and of those Parts of the Counties of Middlesex and Somerset lying on the Northern and Eastern Side of Raritan River, and of the South Branch of the same, shall compose the upper Brigade; the Militia of the Counties of Monmouth, Hunterdon and Burlington, and of those Parts of the Counties of Middlesex and Somerset lying on the Southern and Western Side of the said River Raritan, and of the South Branch of the same, shall compose the middle Brigade; and the Militia of the Counties of Gloucester, Salem, Cape-May and Cumberland, shall compose the lower Brigade.

Brigades, by whom to be commanded.

2. AND BE IT FURTHER ENACTED, That each Brigade shall be commanded by a Brigadier or Colonel Commandant, who shall be the eldest Colonel, and if there is no Colonel, the eldest Lieutenant-Colonel of the Regiments which compose the Brigade, to be determined by the Date of their several Commissions; which Brigadiers, Colonels, or Lieutenant-Colonels Commandant, shall be empowered to appoint a Major of Brigade, to rank as Major of the Militia, and receive Pay on the Certificate of his Brigadier, Colonel or Lieutenant-Colonel Commandant.

Regiments, how to be officered.

3. AND BE IT FURTHER ENACTED, That each Regiment or Battalion shall be officered with one Lieutenant-Colonel (except where a Colonel is already appointed) and one Major; and also with an Adjutant, who shall be taken from the Line, and rank as First Lieutenant, and when in Service be entitled to the Pay and Rations of a Captain; one Quartermaster, who shall also be taken from the Line, rank with Lieutenants, and receive like Pay and Rations when in Service; and when Circumstances will admit, a Surgeon; which Regimental Staff-Officers shall be appointed by the Field Officers or a Majority of them; and the Commanding Officer of each Regiment or Battalion shall appoint a Sergeant-Major. PROVIDED ALWAYS, That where two Majors have been heretofore appointed and commissioned in any Regiment or Battalion both shall be continued, but Vacancies happening in the Office of Second Major, shall not hereafter be supplied.

In the Council Chamber, the 31st day of July, 1760.

Assented to : WM. BULL

No. 1076. AN ACT FOR THE REGULATION OF THE MILITIA OF THIS STATE; AND FOR REPEALING SUCH LAWS AS HAVE HITHERTO BEEN ENACTED FOR THE GOVERNMENT OF THE MILITIA.

Preamble.

WHEREAS, the establishment of a well regulated militia in a free State, will greatly conduce to its happiness and prosperity, and is absolutely essential to the preservation of its freedom; and whereas, it is necessary that the laws hitherto enacted for the regulation of the militia of this State, be amended and reduced into one body, for the satisfaction and better information of individuals, and for the interest of the community.

Militia divided into brigades, regiments and companies.

I. Be it therefore enacted, by his Excellency Rawlins Lowndes, Esqr., President and Commander-in-chief in and over the State of South Carolina, by the Honorable the Legislative Council and the General Assembly of the said State, and by the authority of the same, That as soon as conveniently may be, after the passing of this Act, the whole militia of this State shall be divided into three brigades; and there shall be a Brigadier-General and a Major of Brigade appointed to each; and the several regiments of militia in this State, consisting of more than twelve hundred men, shall be divided into regiments of not less than six hundred men each, by the majority of the field officers of the regiments so to be divided and those appointed to such new regiments, and who are hereby empowered

Acts relating to the Militia.

Fines, how to be applied.

X. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all fines which are inflicted under this Act for any sum not exceeding ten pounds, shall be applied by the majority of the officers of the company in which the persons paying them are, towards purchasing drums, fises, standards and other necessities for the said company ; and the purchasing of arms, ammunition and accoutrements for such persons belonging to such companies respectively, as shall on oath make it appear they cannot purchase the same without distressing their families. Provided, nevertheless, that such persons so furnished, shall return the same on removing out of the beat of such company, on pain of forfeiting for neglect thereof, seventy-five pounds, currency, to be recovered as all fines under six pounds, are recoverable by this Act. And that all fines recovered in any regiment in the county above ten pounds, shall be paid by the commanding-officer, once a year, into the treasury of this State, for the use thereof; and those above ten pounds recovered in any regiment of Charlestown, shall by the commanding officer be paid at the end of every six months, into the treasury, for the use aforesaid : Provided, nevertheless, That the major of each regiment shall receive and pay, in like manner, all fines and forfeitures incurred by his commanding officer.

Returns to be made.

XI. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every captain of every regiment of militia in this State shall, (in Charlestown immediately, and in the country within two months,) after the passing of this Act, and once in every six months thereafter, take and enrol the names of all male free inhabitants within the districts of their respective companies, from the age of sixteen to sixty years, and inform them of the companies to which they belong, who are hereby obliged to turn out, and to do the duty of such companies, whenever their respective companies are by law obliged to be mustered or trained, or to perform any duty or service whatever; the publishing of the time and places of any such mustering, training or performance of any duty or service, by beat of drum, or any other expeditious and proper manner, shall be deemed a legal notice thereof, to oblige such persons to appear in their respective companies in a proper and legal manner for such purposes, and in no other. And every captain of every regiment shall, immediately after taking such list, which he is hereby enjoined to do twice in every year, and as often after as required by the commanding officer, make and return an exact copy thereof, on oath, to the adjutant of the regiment to which he belongs, who shall therefrom make an exact roll of the officers and privates of such regiment, and certify the same immediately to the brigadier-general of the brigade to which such regiments belong, who shall return the same to the colonel of such regiment, who shall return an exact copy thereof to the President or Governor and Commander-in-chief, as the case may be, for the time being, within sixty days thereafter; on pain that every such captain, adjutant, colonel or brigadier, neglecting or refusing so to do, shall, for every such offence, forfeit the sum of one hundred pounds.

Arms.

XII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That all persons under the age of sixteen and above the age of sixty years, are hereby excused from bearing arms in time of peace or alarm, on making such age appear, on oath; and all persons liable to bear arms by this Act, shall constantly keep in good repair, at his place of abode, and appear with, at every muster of the company to which he belongs, and do duty in the said company on all occasions, with one good musket and bayonet, or a good substantial smooth bore gun and bayonet, a cross belt and car-touch box, capable of containing thirty-six rounds, with at least twelve rounds of good cartridges, filled with gun powder and a leaden bullet, each fit for such musket or smooth bore gun, and half a pound of spare powder and twenty-four spare rounds of leaden bullets or buck-shot, or one good rifle-gun and tomahawk or cutlass, with three quarters of a pound of powder, and not less than thirty-six leaden bullets proper for such rifle, with an equal number of patches, together with a cover for the lock of such musket or gun, one ball of wax, one worm and picker, six spare flints, and one screw driver or substantial knife, of the fitness and sufficiency of which arms, ammunition and accoutrements, the captain or commanding officer of each company shall determine.

XIII. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That every person liable to bear arms by this Act, whose arms, ammunition or accoutrements shall be found at any muster deficient, and not as required by this Act, shall forfeit and pay, for every such part of his arms, ammunition or accoutrements which shall be so deficient, a sum not exceeding three pounds. And every commissioned officer of any company in any of the regiments of militia of this State, may, once in every two months, and not oftener, with one or more sergeants of the company under his command, repair to the abode of every such person enrolled in such company, and demand a sight of his arms, ammunition and accoutrements, and every such person refusing to produce such arms, ammunition and accoutrements to be viewed, and who shall be found deficient in any of them, or not to have kept them in good order, shall, for every such refusal, or part of such arms, ammunition or accoutrements so deficient or out of order, forfeit and pay a sum not exceeding six pounds. Provided, nevertheless, that no such person shall be fined for such deficiency of arms, ammunition or accoutrements, if he can make it credibly appear to the captain of his company that such deficiency of such arms, ammunition and accoutrements, is not from wilful neglect.

Penalty for not being armed.

XIV. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the following persons are excused from general and ordinary musters, that is to say:—the Lieutenant-Governor for the time being, and all such persons as have held the offices of President or Governor and Commander-in-chief, or Vice-President or Lieutenant-Governor, all members of the Privy Council for the time being, with their clerk and door-keepers, the judges of the several courts of justice, and clerks of such courts, the master in chancery, sergeant-at-arms, sheriffs, with one deputy each, collectors of the customs, comptrollers, powder receiver, commissary, surveyor-general, auditors-general, secretary and one deputy, waiters and searchers, commissioners of the treasury, all non-commissioned colonels, lieutenant-colonels, majors and captains in the several regiments who have borne commissions, or any or all of them, respectively, for the space of ten years in the whole, all officers in the continental regiments in the service of this State, who shall have borne commissions for ten years successively, or who continue in the said service until such regiments be disbanded by public authority, the members of the Senate and House of Representatives, and their respective officers, all officers of the courts of justice not before mentioned, while attending the same, all justices of the peace who actually qualify and act, and no other, all licensed clergymen, belonging to any established church in this State, the post-master, his deputy and post-rider, the fire-masters and managers of the fire engines in Charlestown, the pilots and their crews, one white man to each ferry, and one to

AN ACT FOR THE REGULATION OF THE MILITIA OF THIS STATE.

No. 1233.

I. Be it enacted by the Honorable the Senate and House of Representatives, in General Assembly met, and by the authority of the same, That it shall be lawful for the Governor or Commander-in-chief of this State to order the militia of this State to assemble once in every six months in the city of Charleston, and once in every twelve months in the other districts throughout the State, at regimental musters, and to assemble at ordinary musters of companies once in two months, within the districts of such regiments and companies; and also, to order out the militia of this State in any time of invasion or alarm, for the security and defence of the same: That every person who, on being summoned, shall wilfully neglect to turn out at a regimental muster, properly armed and accoutred, or shall be guilty of a disobedience of orders at such musters, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding four dollars; and who, on being summoned, shall wilfully neglect to turn out at an ordinary muster of the company he belongs to, or shall be guilty of a disobedience of orders at such ordinary muster, shall be fined in a sum not exceeding two dollars; and every person who shall wilfully neglect to repair to the rendezvous of the company to which he belongs, properly armed and accoutred, on being properly summoned thereto by beat or drum or otherwise, in time of any invasion or alarm for the defence of this State, or shall while under orders on such duty, be guilty of disobedience of orders, every such persons so offending shall be fined in a sum not exceeding ten pounds. That all fines shall be inflicted, on non-commissioned officers and privates, by the judgment of the majority of the officers of the company in which the offender is enrolled: that a captain shall be tried by three captains and two field-officers, and a subaltern by a captain and two subalterns, who shall take the following oath before they proceed to trial. "I, A, B, C, D, E, F, will faithfully and impartially try and determine the case of G. H, now to be tried before this court, so help me God." That no fines shall be levied until ten days after conviction; and the courts authorized by this Act shall administer the necessary oaths, and issue the necessary process for summoning offenders and levying of fines; and that the sergeants, for executing such process, shall be allowed fees as constables are by law allowed.

Militia, when to muster.

Fines for neglect.

II. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That from and immediately after the passing of this Act, the captains and subalterns of each company shall divide their respective companies into small divisions, who shall do the necessary duties of patrol in their respective districts, at least once in every fortnight, under the same fines as are inflicted for non-attendance at ordinary musters, and to be recovered in the same manner.

Patrols.

III. And be it enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the following persons shall be excused from militia duty, except in times of alarm, to wit: the members of the privy council with their officers, all clergymen regularly licensed in this State, all school masters who have under their tuition not less than fifteen scholars, the members of the Legislature and their officers, judges and clerks of the several courts and officers, the intendant and wardens of Charleston and their officers, the commissioners of the treasury, all officers of the customs, the Secretary and his deputies, the auditor general and his several clerks, all acting magistrates and constables legally appointed, all regularly bred practicing physicians and surgeons, the post-master and post riders, branch the county, and formed into companies of not less than thirty two, nor more than sixty eight, rank and file, to be placed under one captain, one lieutenant, and one ensign, all of whom shall be commissioned by the committee of safety, upon the nomination of the committees of the counties as aforesaid. And the commander in chief of each county shall, within three months after passing this ordinance, deliver to each captain a list of the names of the men appointed for his company; and every captain receiving such list shall summon his company to meet him within a fortnight, at such convenient time and place as he may appoint, in order to lay a proper foundation for training and disciplining them in the most effectual manner.

How enrolled.

Who exempted.

Provided, That the members of his majesty's council, and the committee of safety, the president of the convention, treasurer, attorney-general, auditor, clerk of the council, clerk of the secretary's office, clerk of the general convention, and clerk of the committee of safety (each of which exempts furnishing a stand of arms for a soldier) all clergymen and dissenting ministers, the president, professors, students, and scholars, of William and Mary college, the keeper of the publick jail, all overseers of four tithables residing on a plantation, and all millers, and persons concerned in iron works, shall be exempted from such enlistment.

Fine on colonel for neglect.

And be it further ordained, That if any commander in chief of any county shall fail to do his duty as above directed, he shall forfeit and pay the sum of two hundred pounds.

Arms, &c. to be furnished by militia.

And be it farther ordained, That every militia man so to be enlisted shall furnish himself with a good rifle, if to be had, or otherwise with a tomahawk, common firelock, bayonet, pouch, or cartouch box, three charges of powder and ball, and appear with the same at the place appointed for mustering, and shall constantly keep by him one pound of powder and four pounds of ball, to be produced whenever called for by his commanding-officer.

Exceptions.

Provided always, That no person shall be subject to the penalties hereby inflicted, for the not providing or producing the quantity of powder required, who shall make it appear to the court-martial that he has used his best endeavours to procure such powder, and hath not been able so to do; also, that if it be certified by a court-martial that any soldier enlisted is so poor as not in such time as the court shall deem reasonable, he shall suffer such corporal punishment as the court before whom the recovery shall be, may think fit, not exceeding thirty-nine lashes. And the lieutenant or commanding officer for the time being of any county, may recover any arms so sold, concealed, or removed, by action or petition in detinue or trover, with costs. And to the end that such arms may be known, the commanding officer shall cause to be stamped or engraved on them, the name of the county, together with the number of the regiment to which they may belong. At every muster, each captain or commanding officer, shall call his roll, examine every person belonging thereto, and note down all delinquencies occurring therein, and make return thereof at the next regimental or general muster to the lieutenant colonel commandant, or commanding officer of his regiment, including those which may occur on that day. Every lieutenant colonel commandant or commanding officer of a regiment, shall in like manner call his roll, examine and note down all delinquencies in his regiment, and make return thereof, together with those reported from commanding officers of companies, to the county lieutenant or commanding officer, within ten days after every general and regimental muster, who shall lay the whole, together with the delinquencies occurring to him on the like examination, so far as they relate to persons below field officers, before the court hereafter appointed to take cognizance of, and determine on them. And so far as they relate to field officers, the like returns shall be made to the executive who shall enquire into and determine on them. Provided, That the commanding officer of a county or of a regiment, shall not be obliged to extend their roll calls, or individual examinations beyond the officers, unless they observe some apparent necessity therefor. And to each of the said returns shall be annexed the following oath, to be administered by any justice of the peace, viz, "I ———, do swear that the returns hereunto annexed, contain all delinquencies which have occurred in the militia of my county, the ——— regiment, or ——— company of ——— regiment (as the case may be) since the last return, having examined the same as the law directs; (and to the county and regimental return shall be added) and that the reports which accompany them are all which have been made by the commanding officers of regiments or companies, as the case may be. So help me God." Every captain or commanding officer of a company shall, within ten days after every regimental and general muster, make up and report to the commanding officer of his regiment, a return of his company, including all arms, ammunition, and accoutrements, by this act directed, distinguishing effective and good from non-effective and bad, noting therein such as have died, removed, been exempted or added, and all persons within the bounds of his company not on his roll, who ought to be enrolled. The commanding officer of each regiment shall, within fifteen days after every general muster, make the like return to the commanding officer of the county, who shall, within forty days thereafter, make the like return of the whole of his militia, to the governor. The militia of this commonwealth as now organized, shall be disbanded, and all officers of the same are exonerated from all pains and penalties for non-performance of their duties heretofore prescribed, except the duties prescribed by the act for the better collection of the one-eighth per cent. tax, and the penalties for failure therein. And for providing for the appointments of the officers and others by this act described;

Regimental returns.

III. Be it further enacted, That the governor, with the advice of council, shall, on or before the first day April next, appoint in each county within this commonwealth, the most able and fit persons who shall be willing to accept the same, to be county lieutenant, and the necessary regimental field officers, according to the number of militia on the present returns, and immediately issue commissions accordingly. Each county lieutenant and other field officer, shall, at the first or second court to be held in their county after receiving such commissions, take the oath by this act directed. Every county lieutenant shall within one month after having taken such oath, summon all the field officers of his county, and an equal number of the senior magistrates, not being militia officers, to meet at the court-house, to form a board, at which he shall preside, and with them, or a majority of the said field officers and magistrates, respectively, each having taken the following oath, to be administered by one of the magistrates to the other members, and then by another magistrate to him, viz.

Field officers to be appointed by executive.

Captains and subalterns to be recommended by a board of officers and senior magistrates, to the executive & commissioned.
