DEFENDANT PEDRO “PETE” ARREDONDO’S MOTION TO DISMISS
PLAINTIFFS’ ORIGINAL COMPLAINT AND BRIEF IN SUPPORT

Defendant Pedro “Pete” Arredondo, pursuant to Federal Rules of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1) and 12(b)(6), files this Motion to Dismiss the claims brought against him in Plaintiffs’ Original Complaint. In support thereof, Arredondo respectfully shows as follows:¹

SUMMARY

Defendant Arredondo is entitled to dismissal of Plaintiffs’ federal claims. First, Plaintiffs lack standing individually as parents and siblings to present claims under 42 U.S.C. § 1983. Second, Plaintiffs fail to allege facts that are sufficient to state a claim for relief regarding Arredondo. Specifically, Plaintiffs’ claims against Arredondo for a Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment unlawful seizure fail on their face since any seizure was created by the shooter as opposed to any police presence. The Fourteenth Amendment substantive due process claim is based upon legal theories—state-created danger and custodial relationship—that have been soundly rejected by the Fifth Circuit. Consequently, Arredondo is entitled to qualified immunity since rejected legal theories cannot be clearly established law. Finally, Plaintiffs’ claims for exemplary damages against Defendant Arredondo are without merit and all discovery should be stayed in this matter until the issue of qualified immunity is resolved.

¹ Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(a)(4), Chief Arredondo is not required to file an answer until fourteen (14) days after the Court rules on a motion filed pursuant to Rule 12. See also Robin v. City of Frisco, No. 4:16-cv-576, 2017 WL 2986315, *1 (E.D. Tex. Jul. 13, 2017). This extension applies regardless of whether the motion relates to some or all of the claims alleged in Plaintiffs’ complaint. See 5B CHARLES ALAN WRIGHT & ARTHUR R. MILLER, FEDERAL PRACTICE & PROCEDURE § 1346 (3d ed. 2006).

(3d ed. 2006) ii

STATEMENT OF ISSUES

This motion presents the following issues for the Court:

1. Whether the Court lacks jurisdiction over the claims Plaintiffs Christina Zamora, Ruben Zamora, and Jamie Torres assert individually for alleged violations of M.Z. and K.T.'s constitutional rights because Christina Zamora, Ruben Zamora, and Jamie Torres lack standing to recover individually for such alleged violations.
2. Whether the Court should dismiss Plaintiffs' claims against Arredondo for Unlawful Seizure because there was a reason unrelated to the police presence hindering their movements and Arredondo has qualified immunity from the claims as pleaded.
3. Whether Arredondo is entitled to qualified immunity on Plaintiffs' state-created danger and custodial relationship claims since neither claim was clearly established law at the time of the shooting.
4. Whether the Court should dismiss Plaintiffs' claims against Arredondo in his official capacity because such claims are redundant of Plaintiffs' claims against Uvalde Consolidated Independent School District ("UCISD").
5. Whether the Supreme Court has foreclosed supervisor liability claims under §1983.
6. Whether the Court should dismiss Plaintiffs' §1983 claim alleging failure to train because Plaintiffs have failed to adequately allege a sufficient factual basis to establish the elements of such a claim.
7. Whether the Court should dismiss Plaintiffs' claims for punitive damages against Arredondo because they have not offered well-pled allegations sufficient to support such damages against him.
8. Whether discovery should be stayed pending disposition of Arredondo's assertion of qualified immunity.

BACKGROUND

A. Plaintiffs' Allegations.

Plaintiffs allege that "Uvalde CISD adopted an active shooter response policy on April 15, 2020." ECF Doc. 1 at ¶110. Plaintiffs further allege that Arredondo was a "chief policymaker" and had "final policymaking authority." Id. at ¶¶29, 133.²

² Arredondo is not the UCISD's policymaker as a matter of law. The Board of Trustees is the policymaker for independent school districts in Texas. Doe v. Edgewood Indep. Sch. Dist., 964 F.3d 351, 365 (5th Cir. 2020); Jett v. Dallas Indep. Sch. Dist., 7 F.3d 1241, 1245 (5th Cir. 1993). In ruling on a Rule 12(b) motion, a court must treat Plaintiffs' factual allegations in the most favorable light, but a court is not bound to accept legal conclusions couched as factual allegations. Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286 (1986).

Plaintiffs further allege that the shooter “began his rampage with an act of domestic violence” in the City of Uvalde and then opened fired in the City of Uvalde at “[t]wo people from a funeral home across the street from the crash site” where the shooter drove his truck into a ditch. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶113-114. “Officers of the Uvalde Police Department, including Defendant Pargas and Coronado, were among the first law enforcement officers to arrive on scene. Id. at ¶116. These City of Uvalde Police Officers were “responding to a report of a car crash and shots fired” in the City of Uvalde. Id.

The shooter headed into Robb Elementary School, and Principal Mandy Gutierrez “called Uvalde CISD Police Chief Arredondo, who told her to shut the school down.” ECF Doc. 1 at ¶117. The Principal then instructed the janitor to “lock all the doors” indicating the exterior doors were unlocked. Id. The shooter entered the west building through an unlocked door. Id. at ¶123.

“Less than three minutes after the shooting began, officers entered the west building....” ECF Doc. 1 at ¶128. Defendant Pargas, the acting chief of the Uvalde PD, was right behind the initial group. Id. “At 11:35 a.m., three Uvalde police officers with body armor, two rifles, and three pistols took up positions near classrooms 111 and 112. Id. “At 11:36 a.m., four additional officers arrived inside the building, including the Uvalde SWAT commander, Sgt. Canales, and Defendant Arredondo.” Id. at ¶132. “At 11:38 a.m., Defendant Coronado [a sergeant of the Uvalde PD] told other officers that the suspect was ‘contained’ and ‘barricaded.’” Id. at ¶142.

Subsequent to the Uvalde Police Chief and SWAT Commander arriving on scene at the north end of the west building, Defendant Arredondo called police dispatch and sought additional officers. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶151. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo called Uvalde police “asking for a radio, rifle, and additional ammunition.” Id. at ¶153. Plaintiffs further allege that Arredondo gave orders for other officers to stand down and at 12:09 p.m. “instructed officers not to perform a breach of the classroom.” Id. at ¶¶153, 168. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo was “also intermittently attempt[ing] to make verbal contact with [the shooter].” Id. at ¶158.

Plaintiffs allege that by 12:13 p.m. the BORTAC commander had arrived on scene. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶171. Then, at 12:30 p.m., Defendant Betancourt arrived on scene. Id. at ¶177. “[A] BORTAC-led group of officer” prepared to breach at 12:48 p.m., but Defendant Betancourt ordered them to stand by. Id. at ¶187. Disregarding that order, around 12:50 p.m., the BORTAC-led group breached the door and killed the shooter. Id. at ¶188.

B. Plaintiffs’ Causes of Action.

Plaintiffs assert claims against Arredondo in his individual and official capacities under 42 U.S.C. §1983 for alleged violations of M.Z’s and K.T.’s rights under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶271-298. First, Plaintiffs assert a claim against Arredondo in his individual capacity under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments for unlawful seizure. Id. at ¶¶271-275. Second, Plaintiffs purport to assert a claim against Arredondo in his individual and capacities under the Fourteenth Amendments for a “State Created Danger & Custodial Relationship.” Id. at ¶¶276-283. Finally, Plaintiffs assert a “failure to supervise or train” claim under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments regarding “unlawful seizure” against Arredondo in his official capacity. Id. at ¶¶284-298. Plaintiffs seek recovery from Arredondo for compensatory damages; punitive damages; reasonable attorneys’ fees and costs; and pre- and post-judgment interest. Id. at Prayer, ¶¶(a)-(d).

ARGUMENT AND AUTHORITIES

A. The Standard for a Motion to Dismiss.

1. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1).

A court must dismiss a claim for which it lacks jurisdiction. FED. R. CIV. P. 12(b)(1). A claim should be dismissed for lack of subject-matter jurisdiction “when the court does not have statutory or constitutional power to adjudicate the case.” In re FEMA Trailer Formaldehyde Prods. Liab. Litig., 668 F.3d 281, 286 (5th Cir. 2012) (citation omitted). When a Rule 12(b)(1) motion is filed together with other Rule 12 motions, the Rule 12(b)(1) challenge should be first considered. Wolcott v. Sebelius, 635 F.3d 757, 762 (5th Cir. 2011) (citing Ramming v. U.S., 281 F.3d 158, 161 (5th Cir. 2001)). The party asserting jurisdiction bears the burden of proof for a motion under Rule 12(b)(1). Ramming, 281 F.3d at 161.

2. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6).

To survive a FED. R. CIV. P. 12(b)(6) motion to dismiss, Plaintiffs must plead “enough facts to state a claim to relief that is plausible on its face.” Bell Atl. Corp. v. Twombly, 550 U.S. 544, 570 (2007). A formulaic recitation of the elements of a cause of action will not suffice. Id.; Ashcroft v. Iqbal, 556 U.S. 662, 678 (2009). In deciding a motion under Rule 12(b)(6), the court does not, “presume true a number of categories of statements, including legal conclusions; mere labels; threadbare recitals of the elements of a cause of action; conclusory statements; and naked assertions devoid of further factual enhancement.” Harmon v. City of Arlington, 16 F.4th 1159, 1162-63 (5th Cir. 2021) (citing Morgan v. Swanson, 659 F.3d 359, 370 (5th Cir. 2011) (en banc)).

The Court need only accept as true the “well pleaded” facts in a complaint; to be “well pleaded,” a complaint must state specific facts to support the claim, not merely conclusions and unwarranted factual deductions. Tuchman v. DSC Comms. Corp., 14 F.3d 1061, 1067 (5th Cir. 1994); Fee v. Herndon, 900 F.2d 804, 807 (5th Cir. 1990). A court is not bound to accept legal conclusions couched as factual allegations. Papasan v. Allain, 478 U.S. 265, 286 (1986). The Court should “not accept as true conclusory allegations, unwarranted factual inferences, or legal conclusions.” Gentilello v. Rege, 627 F.3d 540, 544 (5th Cir. 2010). A conclusory allegation is one which lacks factual support. E.g., Inclusive Communities Project, Inc. v. Lincoln Prop. Co., 920 F.3d 890, 911 (5th Cir. 2019). The Court should dismiss a complaint if it lacks an allegation regarding an element of a cause of action. Keane v. Fox TV Stations, Inc., 297 F. Supp. 2d 921, 925 (S.D. Tex. 2004) (citing Blackburn v. City of Marshall, 42 F.3d 925, 931 (5th Cir. 1995)).

3. The Plaintiffs’ Burden to Defeat Qualified Immunity.

“Although nominally an affirmative defense, the plaintiff has the burden to negate the assertion of qualified immunity once properly raised.” Collier v. Montgomery, 569 F.3d 214, 217-18 (5th Cir. 2009). Qualified immunity “adds a wrinkle” to §1983 pleadings. Arnold v. Williams, 979 F.3d 262, 266-67 (5th Cir. 2020). “A plaintiff seeking to overcome qualified immunity must plead specific facts that both allow the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the harm he has alleged and that defeat a qualified immunity defense with equal specificity.” Id. (quoting Backe v. LeBlanc, 691 F.3d 645, 648 (5th Cir. 2012)). To defeat qualified immunity, a plaintiff must show: (1) that the official violated a statutory or constitutional right; and (2) that the right was clearly established at the time of the challenged conduct, in the specific context of the case. Scott v. Harris, 550 U.S. 372, 377 (2007); Morgan, 659 F.3d at 371; Brumfield v. Hollins, 551 F.3d 322, 326 (5th Cir. 2008). Courts have discretion in deciding which prong to address first. Pearson v. Callahan, 555 U.S. 223, 236 (2009).

B. The Court Lacks Jurisdiction Over the Parents’ Individual Claims Because They Lack Standing.

“Federal courts are courts of limited jurisdiction, and absent jurisdiction conferred by statute, lack the power to adjudicate claims.” Stockman v. FEC, 138 F.3d 144, 151 (5th Cir. 1998). The court “must presume that a suit lies outside this limited jurisdiction, and the burden of establishing federal jurisdiction rests on the party seeking the federal forum.” Howery v. Allstate Ins. Co., 243 F.3d 912, 916 (5th Cir. 2001). Accordingly, “before a federal court can consider the merits of a legal claim, the person seeking to invoke the jurisdiction of the court must establish the requisite standing to sue.” Whitmore v. Arkansas, 495 U.S. 149, 154 (1990).

To establish standing under Article III, “a plaintiff must show (1) it has suffered an ‘injury in fact’ that is (a) concrete and particularized and (b) actual or imminent, not conjectural or hypothetical; (2) the injury is fairly traceable to the challenged action of the defendant; and (3) it is likely, as opposed to merely speculative, that the injury will be redressed by a favorable decision.” Friends of the Earth, Inc. v. Laidlaw Envtl. Servs. (TOC), Inc., 528 U.S. 167, 180-81 (2000). “The injury must affect the plaintiff in a personal and individual way.” Lujan v. Defenders of Wildlife, 504 U.S. 555, 560 n.1 (1992).

Plaintiffs Christina Zamora, Ruben Zamora, and Jamie Torres purport to assert claims individually and as next friends to their minor children against Arredondo. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶18, 19, & 21.

Christina Zamora, Ruben Zamora, and Jamie Torres lack individual standing under §1983 because they expressly base their §1983 claims on allegations that the Defendants violated M.Z.’s and K.T.’s constitutional rights, not their own constitutional rights. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶273 (“By using force and authority to involuntarily confine M.Z., K.T., and other students and teachers....”); 274 (“were deliberately indifferent to the constitutional rights of M.Z., K.T., and the other victims....”); 280 (“Defendants illegally created a dangerous environment for M.Z. and K.T.”); 282 (“were deliberately indifferent to the constitutional rights of M.Z., K.T., and the other victims....”); 288 (“Defendants Arredondo, Pargas, and Nolasco were deliberated indifferent to the ... right of M.Z., K.T., and the other students....”); 289 (“Defendant officers was the driving force behind and actual cause of M.Z.’s and K.T.’s constitutional injuries.”); 291 (“were deliberately indifferent to the constitutional rights of M.Z., K.T., and the other victims....”).

Parents lack standing to bring individual claims under §1983 based upon alleged deprivations of a child’s constitutional rights. Martinez v. Maverick County, 507 Fed. App’x 446, 448 n.1 (5th Cir. 2013) (family members of the injured plaintiff “failed to establish standing by not putting forth facts implicating a right of recovery separate from the alleged violations of [the injured plaintiff’s] personal rights”) (citing Coon v. Ledbetter, 780 F.2d 1158, 1160 (5th Cir. 1986)).³

Consequently, Christina Zamora, Ruben Zamora, and Jamie Torres lack standing to pursue individual claims under §1983. The Court lacks jurisdiction and must dismiss with prejudice the §1983 individual claims of Christina Zamora, Ruben Zamora, and Jamie Torres against Arredondo.⁴

C. Plaintiffs’ Claim for Unlawful Seizure Against Arredondo Fails as a Matter of Law.

As an initial matter, there was no seizure by Arredondo and the Law Enforcement Individual Defendants. “The Fourth Amendment protects ‘[t]he right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures.’ [T]he ‘seizure’ of a ‘person,’ which can take the form of ‘physical force,’ or a ‘show of authority’ that ‘in some way restrain[s] the liberty’ of the person.” Torres v. Madrid, 141 S. Ct. 989, 995 (2021) (quoting Terry v. Ohio, 392 U. S. 1, 19, n. 16 (1968)); see also California v. Hodari D., 499 U.S. 621 (1991). “At the adoption of the Fourth Amendment, a ‘seizure’ was the ‘act of taking by warrant’ or ‘of laying hold on suddenly.’” Torres, 141 S. Ct., at 995 (citation omitted).

“A seizure requires the use of force with an intent to restrain. Accidental force will not qualify. Nor will force intentionally applied for some other purpose satisfy the rule.” Id. at 998 (emphasis in original) (citation omitted). “[T]he appropriate inquiry is whether the challenged conduct objectively manifests an intent to restrain...” Id. (emphasis in original). “Nor does the seizure depend on the subjective perceptions of the seized person.” Id. at 999.

In determining whether an officer makes a sufficient show of authority, the court considers whether, in the light of ‘all of the circumstances surrounding the incident, a reasonable person would have believed that he was not free to leave.’” United States v. Wright, 57 F.4th 524, *11 (5th Cir. 2023) (quoting United States v. Mendenhall, 446 U.S. 544, 554, (1980)). “When a person ‘has no desire to leave for reasons unrelated to the police presence, the coercive effect of the encounter can be measured better by asking whether a reasonable person would feel free to decline the officers’ requests or otherwise terminate the encounter’” Id. (quoting United States v. Flowers, 6 F.4th 651, 655 (5th Cir. 2021)). Arredondo made no show of authority to the teachers and students in the classrooms. It was the shooter, not the Law Enforcement Individual Defendants, who was restricting their movements. Plaintiffs were not aware of any coercive effect that Arredondo or the Law Enforcement Individual Defendants could have had on them. Additionally, Plaintiffs’ allegations and arguments about “Defendants” generally, and not Arredondo specifically, are insufficient to state a claim against Arredondo under §1983 because individual liability under §1983 requires a showing of individual causation. E.g., Martinez v. City of N. Richland Hills, 846 Fed. App’x 238, 243-44 (5th Cir. 2021); Jones v. Hosemann, 812 Fed. App’x 235, 239 (5th Cir. 2020) (“It is not enough for a plaintiff to simply allege that something unconstitutional happened to him. The plaintiff must plead that each defendant individually engaged in actions that caused the unconstitutional harm.”). Consequently, there was no seizure by Arredondo.

Plaintiffs allege that “the Law Enforcement Individual Defendants illegally seized M.Z. and K.T. in violation of the clearly established rights secured to them by the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendments.” ECF Doc. 1 at ¶273. However, Plaintiffs acknowledge that Arredondo (and the other Law Enforcement Individual Defendants) were responding to an aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in a school. Id. at ¶¶123-125. Plaintiffs further acknowledge that the shooter was using a high-powered, “military-inspired” assault rifle. Id. at ¶¶51-53. Furthermore, the shooter had barricaded himself in Rooms 111 and 112 effectively holding M.Z., K.T., and the other students hostage. Id. at ¶135. When the Individual Law Enforcement Defendants approached to breach the classrooms, the shooter fired, and his rounds breached the walls of the classroom causing officers to be grazed with shrapnel. Id. at ¶136. The facts and circumstances Plaintiffs allege justify the Law Enforcement Individual Defendants (including Arredondo) assessing the situation and removing students and teachers from the surrounding classrooms. Plaintiffs were unable to leave the room because of the shooter—not because of any police presence. Consequently, there was no seizure by Arredondo.

Assuming arguendo that there was a seizure (there was not), Plaintiffs’ complaint that the encounter took too long so as to rise to the level of a constitutional violation is equally without merit. Qualified immunity is overcome only if, at the time and under the circumstances of the challenged conduct, all reasonable officers would have realized the conduct was prohibited by the federal law on which the suit is founded. Dudley v. Angel, 209 F.3d 460, 462 (5th Cir. 2000). The question is whether a reasonable officer could have believed that the actions of the defendant officer were lawful in light of clearly established law and the information the officer possessed at the time. Anderson v. Creighton, 483 U.S. 635, 641 (1987). If reasonable officers could differ on the lawfulness of a defendant's actions, the defendant is entitled to qualified immunity. Malley v. Briggs, 475 U.S. 335, 341 (1986). The legal principle in question must clearly prohibit the specific conduct of the official in the particular circumstances that were confronting the official. District of Columbia v. Wesby, 138 S. Ct. 577, 590 (2018).

It is the plaintiff's burden to plead and prove specific facts overcoming qualified immunity. Elliot v. Perez, 751 F.2d 1472, 1479 (5th Cir. 1985). To do so, a claimant "must plead specific facts that both allow the court to draw the reasonable inference that the defendant is liable for the harm he has alleged and that defeat a qualified immunity defense with equal specificity." Backe, 691 F.3d at 648. Under the pleading standard required to overcome qualified immunity, Plaintiffs' conclusory and speculative Fourth Amendment allegations fail to state a claim.

The Supreme Court has held that the legal issue must be defined with sufficient specificity to determine if the conduct is reasonable in the particular circumstances faced by the defendant. Wesby, 138 S.Ct. at 590; Plumhoff v. Rickard, 572 U.S. 765, 779 (2012). Plaintiffs allege that M.Z. and K.T. were in custody for 77 minutes. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶185. The clearly established law is that officers can detain witnesses during an event for several hours. Illinois v. McArthur, 531 U.S. 326, 332 (2001) (finding a two-hour detention while officers obtained a search warrant for a trailer reasonable where the "time period was no longer than reasonably necessary for the police, acting with due diligence, to obtain the warrant"); United States v. Montoya de Hernandez, 473 U.S. 531 (1985) (involving a 16-hour detention); United States v. Williams, 185 Fed. App'x 866, 869–70 (11th Cir. 2006) (per curiam) (finding officers reasonably detained defendant, including handcuffing him and placing him in a patrol vehicle, for about one hour while they diligently investigated their reasonable suspicion that he had been involved in a shooting); United States v. Gil, 204 F.3d 1347, 1350–51 (11th Cir. 2000) (finding a 75-minute detention of defendant in handcuffs in back of a patrol vehicle reasonable). Even if the police, rather than the shooter, detained M.Z. and K.T., the law was clearly established that any such alleged brief “detention” was not a constitutional violation. Consequently, Plaintiffs are unable to meet their burden to demonstrate that Arredondo’s actions were objectively unreasonable in light of then clearly established law.

D. Plaintiffs’ State-Created Danger and Custodial-Relationship Claims are Not Recognized in the Fifth Circuit and, Therefore, are Not Clearly Established Law Defeating Qualified Immunity.

To defeat qualified immunity, a plaintiff must show: (1) that the official violated a statutory or constitutional right; and (2) that the right was clearly established at the time of the challenged conduct, in the specific context of the case. Scott, 550 U.S. at 377. Under the second prong, a constitutional right is “clearly established” when the contours of the right are “sufficiently clear that a reasonable official would understand that what he is doing violates that right.” Anderson v. Creighton, 483 U.S. 635, 640 (1987). “Because the focus is on whether the officer had fair notice that [his] conduct was unlawful, reasonableness is judged against the backdrop of the law at the time of the conduct.” Brosseau v. Haugen, 543 U.S. 194, 198 (2004) (per curiam).

The Fifth Circuit has recognized that schoolchildren have a liberty interest in their bodily integrity which is protected by the Due Process Clause. Doe v. Columbia-Brazoria Indep. Sch. Dist., 855 F.3d 681, 688 (5th Cir. 2017) (citing Doe v. Covington Cty. Sch. Dist., 675 F.3d 849, 853 n.2 (5th Cir. 2012) (en banc)); see DeShaney v. Winnebago Cty. Dep’t of Soc. Servs., 489 U.S. 189, 197 (1989). But the “failure to protect an individual against private violence simply does not constitute a violation of the Due Process Clause,” unless the state has created “a ‘special relationship’ with a particular citizen, requiring the state to protect him from harm.” Covington, 675 F.3d at 855-56 (quoting DeShaney, 498 U.S. at 199–200). Plaintiffs’ allegations and legal theories are insufficient to defeat Arredondo’s entitlement to qualified immunity.

Plaintiffs point to the state-created danger and special-relationship theories because this case involves a criminal act by a private party who was trespassing on school property. Plaintiffs attempt to pierce Arredondo's qualified immunity through these theories. The problem for Plaintiffs is that "the Fifth Circuit has never recognized th[e] 'state-created-danger' exception." Keller v. Fleming, 952 F.3d 216, 227 (5th Cir. 2020). In fact, the Fifth Circuit has repeatedly declined to recognize the state-created danger theory of liability. Joiner v. United States, 955 F.3d 399, 407 (5th Cir. 2020); see also, e.g., Shumpert v. City of Tupelo, 905 F.3d 310, 324 n.60 (5th Cir. 2018) ("[T]he theory of state-created danger is not clearly established law." (listing cases)); Kovacic v. Villarreal, 628 F.3d 209, 214 (5th Cir. 2010) ("The Fifth Circuit has not adopted the 'state-created danger' theory of liability."); Bustos v. Martini Club Inc., 599 F.3d 458, 466 (5th Cir. 2010) ("But this circuit has not adopted the state-created danger theory."); Rios v. City of Del Rio, 444 F.3d 417, 422 (5th Cir. 2006) ("[N]either the Supreme Court nor this court has ever either adopted the state-created danger theory or sustained a recovery on the basis thereof."); Beltran v. City of El Paso, 367 F.3d 299, 307 (5th Cir. 2004) ("This court has consistently refused to recognize a 'state-created danger' theory of § 1983 liability even where the question of the theory's viability has been squarely presented."). Consequently, Plaintiff have not demonstrated a clearly established substantive due process right on the facts they allege. See Keller, 952 F.3d at 227.

With regard to the special-relationship theory, the Fifth Circuit has emphatically and categorically rejected the special-relationship theory in the public-school context. See Covington, 675 F.3d at 857 ("We reaffirm, then, decades of binding precedent: a public school does not have a DeShaney special relationship with its students requiring the school to ensure the students' safety from private actors."); see also Leffall v. Dallas Indep. Sch. Dist., 28 F.3d 521, 522, 529 (5th Cir. 1994) (finding no special relationship between a high school and a student fatally wounded by a gunshot fired in the school parking lot after a school dance); Johnson v. Dallas Indep. Sch. Dist., 38 F.3d 198, 199, 202-03 (5th Cir. 1994) (finding no special relationship between a high school and a student shot and killed in the school hallway during the school day by a boy who was not a student but had gained access to the school); Doe v. San Antonio Indep. Sch. Dist., 197 Fed. Appx. 296, 298-301 (5th Cir. 2006); Teague v. Tex. City Indep. Sch. Dist., 185 Fed. Appx. 355, 357 (5th Cir. 2006). Accordingly, Plaintiffs' claims cannot rest on the special-relationship theory, as it has been categorically rejected and, thus, cannot defeat Arredondo's entitlement to qualified immunity. See Watts v. Northside Indep. Sch. Dist., 37 F.4th 1094, 1096 (5th Cir. 2022).

E. Plaintiffs' Official Capacity Claims Against Arredondo Should be Dismissed as Redundant.

Suing a governmental official in his official capacity is merely another way of pleading an action against the entity of which that officer is an agent. Kentucky v. Graham, 473 U.S. 159, 165-166 (1985); Brandon v. Holt, 469 U.S. 464, 471 (1985). Courts dismiss redundant claims when they are asserted against both an individual in his or her official capacity and the entity for which the official works. E.g., Castro Romero v. Becken, 256 F.3d 349, 355 (5th Cir. 2001) (upholding the dismissal of claims against officers in their official capacity which were duplicative of the claims against the governmental entities); Eltalawy v. Lubbock Indep. Sch. Dist., 816 Fed. App'x 958, 962-63 (5th Cir. 2020) (dismissing official capacity claims against a school employee as redundant to claims against the school district, citing Hafer v. Melo, 502 U.S. 21, 25 (1991)).⁵

Plaintiffs purport to assert claims under §1983 against both UCISD and Arredondo in his official capacity. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶284-298. Specifically, Plaintiffs repeat their unlawful seizure claim under the Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment and add claims for failure to train and creation of policy.⁶ Id. The Court should dismiss the official-capacity claims against Arredondo because they are redundant of Plaintiffs' claims against UCISD.

F. Even if the Official Capacity Claims Survive, Arredondo is Entitled to Qualified Immunity on Plaintiffs' Supervisory Failure Claims.

Supervisory officials may not be held vicariously liable for the actions of their subordinates under §1983. Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 677 (“[e]ach Government official...is only liable for his or her own misconduct”); Taylor Indep. Sch. Dist., 15 F.3d at 452; Oliver v. Scott, 276 F.3d 736, 742 (5th Cir. 2002) (§1983 does not create supervisory or respondeat superior liability).

In Iqbal, the Supreme Court expressly rejected the argument that a supervisor can be liable under §1983 for knowledge of and acquiescence in their subordinate's conduct. Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 677. The Fifth Circuit's prior holdings concerning supervisor liability generally require plaintiffs to show that the supervisor: (1) had knowledge of discriminatory conduct or knowledge of a substantial risk of serious harm; and (2) responded with deliberate indifference. It is difficult to square these elements of supervisor liability with the Supreme Court's rejection of liability under §1983 based on a supervisor's knowledge of and acquiescence in a subordinate's unconstitutional conduct. Indeed, even the dissent in Iqbal understood the decision to eliminate supervisor liability entirely. Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 692-93.

Although the Fifth Circuit has not decided whether supervisor liability claims survive Iqbal,⁷ other circuit courts of appeals have expressed uncertainty as to the viability of supervisor liability claims after Iqbal. E.g., Reynolds v. Barrett, 685 F.3d 193, 205 n.14 (2nd Cir. 2012); Santiago v. Warminster Twp., 629 F.3d 121, 130 n.8 (3rd Cir. 2010); Dodds v. Richardson, 614

F.3d 1185, 1194-1202 (10th Cir. 2010). Even assuming, arguendo, that, Plaintiffs' claims alleging liability against Arredondo based on his role as a supervisor are not entirely barred by Iqbal, those claims do not allege a clearly established constitutional violation. As a result, Arredondo is entitled to qualified immunity from these claims.

Even if supervisor liability claims survive Iqbal, Arredondo is entitled to qualified immunity from Plaintiffs' substantive due process claims because Plaintiffs have not sufficiently alleged facts to support the elements of such a claim. Plaintiffs have not, therefore, demonstrated that Arredondo engaged in a constitutional violation which was clearly established.

Based on Fifth Circuit cases which either predated or failed to acknowledge Iqbal, the Fifth Circuit has held that a supervisor may be liable for failure to supervise or train if: "(1) the supervisor either failed to supervise or train the subordinate official; (2) a causal link exists between the failure to train or supervise and the violation of the plaintiff's rights; and (3) the failure to train or supervise amounts to deliberate indifference." Goodman v. Harris County, 571 F.3d 388, 395 (5th Cir. 2009).⁸ Additionally, for liability to arise based on inadequate training or supervision, Plaintiffs must allege with specificity how a particular training program is defective and how the supervision was inadequate. Goodman, 571 F.3d at 395; Boggs v. Krum Indep. Sch. Dist., No. 4:17-CV-583, 2018 WL 2463708, *16 (E.D. Tex. June 1, 2018).

To act with deliberate indifference, a government official "must both be aware of facts from which the inference could be drawn that a substantial risk of serious harm exists, and he must also draw the inference." Goodman, 571 F.3d at 395 (citation omitted). To establish deliberate indifference, Plaintiffs "must demonstrate a pattern of violations and that the inadequacy of the training is obvious and obviously likely to result in a constitutional violation." Id. (quoting Cousin

v. Small, 325 F.3d 627, 637 (5th Cir. 2003)); Boggs, 2018 WL 2463708 at *15 (“Claims of inadequate supervision and claims of inadequate training both generally require that the plaintiff demonstrate a pattern.”) (citation omitted); see also id. at *16 (dismissing failure to train and failure to supervise claims because plaintiff had not sufficiently pled a pattern of behavior). If Plaintiffs fail to establish deliberate indifference, the Court need not address the other prongs of liability for failure to train or to supervise. Goodman, 571 F.3d at 395.

First, Plaintiffs do not allege that Arredondo learned of any complaint or concern about the actions of one of his subordinates—the UCISD police officers. Plaintiffs point to the actions of Uvalde PD officers. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶128. Plaintiffs point out that the Uvalde PD acting police chief was on the scene before Arredondo with “three Uvalde police officers with body armor, two rifles, and three pistols took up positions near classrooms 111 and 112.” Id. Plaintiffs specify that “additional officers arrived” such as the “Uvalde SWAT commander” and Uvalde PD Sgt. Canales. Id. at ¶¶132, 142. Plaintiffs do not allege that any particular subordinate of Arredondo committed any specific constitutional violation. Instead, Plaintiffs simply make the conclusory allegation that UCISD “failed to ensure that their police officers were adequately trained and failed to develop meaningful plans to address an active shooter incident.” Id. at ¶287. Plaintiffs specifically allege that only 50% of the Uvalde Police Department and only 20% of the Uvalde County Sheriff’s Office had received active-shooter training. Id. But Plaintiffs make no specific allegation regarding how UCISD police officers were inadequately trained.

Plaintiffs also cannot establish the second element of this claim—that Arredondo demonstrated deliberate indifference toward the constitutional rights of M.Z. and K.T. by failing to take action. Taylor Indep. Sch. Dist., 15 F.3d at 454. The “deliberate indifference” standard is a “stringent standard of fault, requiring proof that a municipal actor disregarded a known or obvious consequence of his action.” Board of the County Comm’rs v. Brown, 520 U.S. 397, 410 (1997); see also Terry v. Le Blanc, 479 Fed. App’x 644, 646 (5th Cir. 2012) (per curiam) (noting that conclusory allegations of deliberate indifference do not state a claim of a deprivation of constitutional rights). The relevant inquiry is not the ultimate efficacy of the actions that were taken, nor the number of steps that were taken. Taylor Indep. Sch. Dist., 15 F.3d at 458 (superintendent was not deliberately indifferent even though his actions were ineffective); Lefall v. Dallas Indep. Sch. Dist., 28 F.3d 521, 531-32 (5th Cir. 1994). Instead, all that is required are good faith measures, any measures, designed to avert the anticipated harm. Hare v. City of Corinth, 74 F.3d 633, 649 (5th Cir. 1996); Lefall, 28 F.3d at 531-32 (the single act of school official’s hiring of security guards for dance where student was fatally shot conclusively established that the official did not act with deliberate indifference, even though the official had actual knowledge that violence was likely at dance).

Plaintiffs failed to offer well-pled allegations of deliberate indifference. Plaintiffs’ bald assertions that Arredondo or “the Law Enforcement Individual Defendants were deliberately indifferent” are no more than invalid legal conclusions or conclusory allegations which the Court should not accept as true. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶274, 282. Instead, Plaintiffs’ more specific allegations negate any finding of deliberate indifference. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo called Uvalde police “asking for a radio, rifle, and additional ammunition.” Id. at ¶153. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo called for the building with the shooter to be “surrounded by as many AR-15s as possible.” Id. at ¶151. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo was “also intermittently attempt[ing] to make verbal contact with [the shooter].” Id. at ¶158. Most importantly, Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo ran toward the shooting, took a position in the hallway, and never left. Id. at ¶132.

Again, Plaintiffs’ official capacity claims against Arredondo should be dismissed as redundant. However, if they are not dismissed as redundant, the “Monell Liability—Failure to Train; Creation of Policy” claims should be dismissed because Arredondo is not a policymaker for UCISD, and Plaintiffs have failed to offer well-pled allegations sufficient to demonstrate a constitutional violation for failure to train or failure to supervise. Plaintiffs’ unlawful seizure claim is without merit for the reasons stated above. See supra section C. Arredondo is, therefore, entitled to qualified immunity, and the Court should dismiss these claims.

G. The Court Should Dismiss Plaintiffs’ Claim for Punitive Damages.

To obtain punitive damages in connection with their §1983 claims, Plaintiffs must establish that Arredondo violated the minor Plaintiffs’ constitutional rights⁹ and that Arredondo acted with reckless or callous indifference to the minor Plaintiffs’ federally protected rights or was motivated by evil intent. Smith v. Wade, 461 U.S. 30, 56 (1983); Heaney v. Roberts, 846 F.3d 795, 803 (5th Cir. 2017). Plaintiffs must demonstrate that Arredondo acted with subjective recklessness or callous indifference. Kohler v. Johnson, 396 Fed. App’x 158, 162 (5th Cir. 2010) (citing Kolstad v. Am. Dental Ass’n, 527 U.S. 526, 536 (1999)); Williams, 352 F.3d at 1015. This is a difficult standard to meet.¹⁰

Plaintiffs have not offered well-pled allegations to show that Arredondo violated M.Z. and K.T.’s constitutional rights. Additionally, Arredondo’s alleged conduct does not demonstrate evil motive or intent and does not rise to the level of reckless or callous indifference to the minor Plaintiffs’ constitutional rights. Plaintiffs acknowledge that Arredondo (and the other Law Enforcement Individual Defendants) were responding to an aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in a school. ECF Doc. 1 at ¶¶123-125. Plaintiffs further acknowledge that the shooter was using a high-powered, “military-inspired” assault rifle. Id. at ¶¶51-53. Furthermore, the shooter had barricaded himself in Rooms 111 and 112 effectively holding M.Z., K.T., and the other students hostage. Id. at ¶135. When the Individual Law Enforcement Defendants approached to breach the classrooms, the shooter fired and his rounds breached the walls of the classroom causing officers to be grazed with shrapnel. Id. at ¶136. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo called Uvalde police “asking for a radio, rifle, and additional ammunition.” Id. at ¶153. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo called for the building with the shooter to be “surrounded by as many AR-15s as possible.” Id. at ¶151. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo was “also intermittently attempt[ing] to make verbal contact with [the shooter].” Id. at ¶158. Plaintiffs allege that Arredondo ran toward the shooting, took a position in the hallway, and never left. Id. at ¶132. Importantly, Plaintiffs allege that hundreds of officers from multiple agencies arrived at the school and other officers took charge without ever communicating with Arredondo. Id. at ¶¶171(BORTAC Commander), 187(Defendant Betancourt). These allegations amount, at most, to nothing more than allegations of negligent conduct. Accordingly, the Court should dismiss Plaintiffs’ claim for punitive damages against Arredondo.

⁹ See, e.g., Williams v. Kaufman County, 352 F.3d 994, 1015 (5th Cir. 2003); La. ACORN Fair Hous. v. LeBlanc, 211 F.3d 298, 303 (5th Cir. 2000).

H. The Court Must Stay Discovery

While a defendant’s assertion of immunity is pending, courts cannot allow any discovery to take place. Carswell v. Camp, 54 F. 4th 307, 311 (5th Cir. 2022); Iqbal, 556 U.S. at 684-686 (recognizing “serious and legitimate reasons” for the basic thrust of qualified immunity—to free government officials from the concerns of litigation, including disruptive discovery, and noting that permitting discovery to proceed as to other defendants would prejudice defendants who have asserted qualified immunity); Siegert v. Gilley, 500 U.S. 226, 232 (1991) (quoting Harlow v. Fitzgerald, 457 U.S. 800, 818 (1982) for the proposition that discovery should not be allowed until the threshold question of qualified immunity is resolved); Mitchell v. Forsyth, 472 U.S. 511, 526 (1985) (“Unless the plaintiff’s allegations state a claim of violation of clearly established law, a defendant pleading qualified immunity is entitled to dismissal before the commencement of discovery.”).¹¹ The Court may not allow any discovery to take place until Arredondo’s assertion of immunity is resolved.

CONCLUSION

WHEREFORE, PREMISES CONSIDERED, Defendant Pedro “Pete” Arredondo prays that the Court the grant this motion to dismiss Plaintiffs’ claims against him for lack of jurisdiction, under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(1) and for failure to state claims upon which relief can be granted, under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 12(b)(6), that the Court recognize that Arredondo is entitled to qualified immunity from Plaintiffs’ claims, and that all of Plaintiffs’ causes of action against Defendant Arredondo be dismissed, with prejudice to the refile of same. Defendant further prays that Plaintiffs take nothing by this suit; that all relief requested by Plaintiffs be denied; and that Defendant recover all costs of suit; as well as for such other and further relief, both general and special, at law or in equity, to which Defendant may show himself to be justly entitled.

App’x 185, 194 (5th Cir. 2020); Morris v. Cross, 476 Fed. App’x 783, 785 (5th Cir. 2012) (“Because the defendants raised qualified immunity, [plaintiff] was not entitled to proceed with discovery.”)
